A Building Set Aside

The members of Grace Lutheran Church were excited. They had worked for years, planned for decades, and invested their time, talent, and treasure in order to see this day, the dedication of their new sanctuary. The bishop was there to celebrate with them. She spoke of the significance of the occasion:

"This day is evidence that God is a keeper of promises. Even when you were wandering with no place to call your own-as you met in a storefront, and then a school cafeteria-God was always present, moving, and leading you. God is with you now.

"This day is also evidence that God blesses us so that we can be a blessing to others. This building is a sanctuary where all are welcome, but it is not only to draw people in; it nourishes us to send us out into the world. The service begins when we leave these walls to share the love of God.

"And so we dedicate not only this building. We also dedicate ourselves to serve and bear witness to the love, grace, and faithfulness of God. Let the people say, 'Amen!'"
